BACKGROUND

On April 8, 2009, a jury found defendant guilty of first degree burglary (§ 459). The jury also found true the allegations that the burglary was of an inhabited dwelling house (§ 459) and that when defendant committed the offense, another person, other than an accomplice, was present (§ 667.5, subd. (c)). In a bifurcated bench trial, the trial court found true that defendant had suffered two prior strike convictions (§§ 667, subds. (b)-(i), 1170.12, subds. (a)-(d)) for rape (§ 261, subd. (a)(2)) and attempted oral copulation by force (§§ 664/288a, subd. (c)(2)), two prior serious felony convictions (§ 667, subd. (a)(1)) for rape and attempted oral copulation by force; and that defendant had served two prior prison terms (§ 667.5, subd. (a)). On June 23, 2009, the trial court sentenced defendant to a total indeterminate term of 30 years to life in state prison with credit for time served.

On November 6, 2012, the electorate passed Proposition 36, also known as the Three Strikes Reform Act. Among other things, this ballot measure enacted section 1170.126, which permits persons currently serving an indeterminate life term under the “Three Strikes” law to file a petition in the sentencing court, seeking to be resentenced to a determinate term as a second striker. (§ 1170.126, subd. (f).) If the trial court determines, in its discretion, that the defendant meets the criteria of section 1170.126, subdivision (e), the court may resentence the defendant. (§ 1170.126, subds. (f), (g).)

Section 1170.126, subdivision (e), provides, as pertinent here, that a defendant is eligible for resentencing if he or she is serving an indeterminate term of life imprisonment imposed pursuant to paragraph (2) of subdivision (e) of Section 667 or subdivision (c) of Section 1170.12 “for a conviction of a felony or felonies that are not defined as serious and/or violent felonies by subdivision (c) of Section 667.5 or subdivision (c) of Section 1192.7.” (§ 1170.126, subd. (e)(1).)

On July 15, 2013, defendant filed in pro per a petition for resentencing under section 1170.126. The trial court denied the petition on August 1, 2013, finding defendant ineligible for resentencing under section 1170.126 due to his current commitment offense for residential burglary and his prior convictions for forcible rape and attempted forcible oral copulation. Defendant filed a timely notice of appeal.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> We note that the California Supreme Court has granted review in cases that have found that the trial court’s order on a postjudgment petition pursuant to section 1170.126 is a nonappealable order. (See, e.g., Teal v. Superior Court (2013) 217 Cal.App.4th 308, review granted July 31, 2013, S211708; People v. Hurtado (2013) 216 Cal.App.4th 941, review granted July 31, 2013, S212017, briefing deferred pursuant to rule 8.512(d)(2),

DISCUSSION

We appointed counsel to represent defendant on appeal. After examination of the record, counsel has filed a brief under the authority of People v. Wende (1979) 25 Cal.3d 436 and Anders v. California (1967) 386 U.S. 738, setting forth a statement of the case, a summary of the facts and potential arguable issues, and requesting this court conduct an independent review of the record.

We offered defendant an opportunity to file a personal supplemental brief, but he has not done so.

Proposition 36 also added section 1170.126, which applies exclusively to those “persons presently serving an indeterminate term of imprisonment pursuant to paragraph (2) of subdivision (e) of Section 667 or paragraph (2) of subdivision (c) of Section 1170.12, whose sentence under this act would not have been an indeterminate life sentence.” (§ 1170.126, subd. (a).) Section 1170.126 sets forth a procedure through which certain prisoners can petition the court for resentencing. Such a person may file a petition to recall his or her sentence and be sentenced as a second strike offender.

Cal. Rules of Court.) Even if we were to conclude it was a nonappealable order, we could consider, in the interest of judicial economy and because of uncertainty in the law, that defendant’s appeal is a petition for writ of habeas corpus or petition for writ of mandate. (See People v. Segura (2008) 44 Cal.4th 921, 928 fn. 4 [treating appeal from nonappealable order as petition for writ of habeas corpus]; Drum v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal.App.4th 845, 853 [Fourth Dist., Div. Two] [treating appeal as petition for writ of mandate due to uncertainty in the law].) In People v. Leggett (2013) 219 Cal.App.4th 846, 854, the appellate court expressed that when a trial court must determine whether the prior convictions qualify under the resentencing provision, such issue is appealable. We will review defendant’s appeal.

(§ 1170.126, subd. (b).) An inmate is eligible for such resentencing if none of his or her commitment offenses constitute serious or violent felonies and none of the enumerated factors disqualifying a defendant for resentencing under Proposition 36 apply.

Section 1170.126, subdivision (e)(3), provides that an inmate is eligible for resentencing if “[t]he inmate has no prior convictions for any of the offenses appearing in clause (iv) of subparagraph (C) of paragraph (2) of subdivision (e) of Section 667 or clause (iv) of subparagraph (C) of paragraph (2) of subdivision (c) of Section 1170.12.”

Defendant here has a prior conviction for forcible rape and attempted forcible oral copulation, offenses listed in sections 667, subdivision (e)(C)(iv)(I), and 1170.12, subdivision (c)(C)(iv)(I). Additionally, defendant’s current conviction for residential first degree burglary is a serious felony under California sentencing law. (See §§ 667, subd. (d)(1), 1192.7, subd. (c)(18).) Defendant is therefore ineligible for resentencing under section 1170.126.

Pursuant to the mandate of People v. Kelly (2006) 40 Cal.4th 106, we have independently reviewed the record for potential error and find no arguable issues.
